Ealing edition

NORTHFIELDS are delighted to have been appointed as the leading local agency to market Poets Place - a prestigious new development in Churchfield Road, Acton.

Poets' Corner, with its charming period houses and quiet residential tree-lined streets, has long been regarded as one of the most desirable parts of Acton and is a good value for money destination.

This new venture development further puts this area on the map with a fantastic new development located close to the green open spaces of Acton Park and close to local shops, restaurants and health clubs. The development comprises of ten apartments and four mews houses all with a high standard of finish with generously sized rooms and floor-to-ceiling windows that give an elegant and modern feel. There is allocated parking and Acton Central Station (British Rail) and Acton Town (tube) both a short distance away.

Richard Palfreeman, Managing Director of Northfields, added: "We have seen a good level of early interest for Poets Place from both our buyers and investors, as it cleverly combines the space, light and layout of living accommodation that people desire as well as being available now at affordable prices."

PRICE: One beds from £225,000

Two beds from £299,950

Three bed mews houses at £485,000
